Collection description: This collection was acquired at auction by SETU (then WIT) in 2008. It comprises over 1,800 individual items, dating from the early 19th up to the mid-20th century. The content varies widely and includes letters, diaries and newspaper articles, both in English and French, pertaining to various members of the famous Wyse family of Waterford. The best-known member of the family was Sir Thomas Wyse (1791-1862), who married Napoleon Bonaparte's niece, Letitia, and was a leading nineteenth-century Irish and Westminster politician, an educationalist and a leading figure in Catholic Emancipation in Ireland. As a member of the British Whig (Liberal) government, Thomas Wyse was central to educational reform and the setting up of the national school system. Thomas and Letitia had two children, Napoleon Alfred Bonaparte-Wyse (1822-1895) and William Charles Bonaparte-Wyse (1826-1892). This revealing collection captures the correspondence of several generations of the Bonaparte-Wyse family. There are also some letters between Thomas Wyse and several well-known figures such as Daniel O'Connell.
